

GPA Calculations for Readmission Purposes: (Some UA South Programs require a higher GPA for admission)

- ✓ The Office of Admissions calculates your GPA from the time of your last enrollment at the University of Arizona. This recalculated GPA does not include your prior UA GPA. All transferable college-level grades are used to calculate your GPA, including any courses repeated for a better grade.
- ✓ If you left in good standing, under most circumstances you will be readmitted by the Office of Admissions upon the authority of the college, provided you have maintained a recalculated cumulative GPA of 2.0 from all institutions attended since leaving the University of Arizona.
- ✓ If your recalculated cumulative GPA is below 2.0, your application will be forwarded to the college for its recommendation.

Re-admissions applicants are required to submit a Paper Application (see an advisor if you left the university on probation or disqualification)
